Operation of University Telephones

The University intercommunicating telephones are operated in much the same way as the Bell telephones. Knowing the number you wish to call, you first lift the instrument from its cradle and listen for the "dial tone" (a humming sound which indicates that the equipment is ready for use). Then dial each figure of the desired number and listen for the "ringing signal" (which indicates the ringing of the telephone with the number you have dialed). If you hear the "busy signal" (a continuous buzz-buzz-buzz), return the instrument to its cradle before making another call.

For information, or for assistance in dialing, or for repair service, call University telephone 142.

The University telephones cannot be connected with the Bell telephones, nor used for making calls off the campus.

Two-Party Lines

A two-party line has numbers differing only in the second digit, as 4133 and 4233. In all two-party lines, the second digit is 1 in one number and 2 in the other, and such pairs of numbers may be recognized by these digits. (A four-digit number, however, does not necessarily indicate that another party has been assigned to the same line.)

If you wish to call the other party on your line, dial zero and return the instrument to its cradle. Your telephone bell and that of the called party will then ring. When the other party answers, your bell will stop ringing. Then take the instrument from its cradle and proceed with the conversation. If, however, your bell does not stop ringing after a reasonable period, you will know that the other party does not answer. Lift the instrument for a moment in order to stop the ringing.
